Summer Financial Aid 2010 – Eligibility Requirements and General Information

Please complete the Summer Financial Aid application on the other side and return it to Student Financial Services.

Financial aid eligibility for summer classes has the same requirements as the fall and spring semesters. A student must:

1) Enroll as a half-time student (6 credits undergraduates or 5 credits graduate students).
2) Enroll in a degree program.
3) Complete the 2010-11 FAFSA for the upcoming academic school year and have the results sent to BHSU by May 1, 2010.
4) Meet SAP (Satisfactory Academic Progress) guidelines for federal student aid programs.

Student financial aid available for Summer 2010:

Pell Grants

Congress has approved year-round Pell grants. However, you must complete 25 credits before you can receive an additional Pell grant in the same academic year.

Federal Work Study

Federal work-study funds are available for Summer 2010. You can indicate your desire to work through this program in question #5 on the application. If you are not attending classes and are not returning to BHSU for the 2010-11 school year, you cannot work Federal work-study in the summer. Federal work-study recipients must complete a Student Employment Authorization form and other required paperwork, if applicable, before beginning to work.

All dependent, full-time summer Federal work-study employees not attending classes, who are remaining in the Spearfish area solely to work FWS, must provide a listing of monthly living expenses to Student Financial Services-Financial Aid.

Federal Stafford Loans

Loan funds are available through the Direct Loan Program. Summer Federal Stafford loans will reduce your 2010-11 academic year remaining loan eligibility. Loans are typically disbursed only during the June and July sessions. The maximum amount you can borrow is determined by your costs to attend BHSU as well as your grade level. The annual loan limit for a freshman student (0-31 credit hours) is $5500, a sophomore (32-63 credit hours) is $6500, juniors and seniors (64+ credit hours) is $7500. We will calculate your eligibility and offer you up to one-fourth (¼) of your annual loan limit for the 2010-11 academic year. All students must complete a Direct Loan Master Promissory Note – www.dlenote.ed.gov. If you have never borrowed a Stafford loan, you will also need to complete Loan Entrance Counseling – www.dl.ed.gov.

Parent PLUS Loans and Alternative Loans

You may be eligible for additional loans if you have financial need after other aid has been awarded. If you are a dependent student, your parents may apply for a Federal PLUS Loan. You can indicate your desire to receive a PLUS loan application in question #5 on the application. The 2010-11 FAFSA must be completed and on file at BHSU in order to apply for a PLUS loan.

Please complete the student section on the reverse side of this form and return it to Student Financial Services. We will process your financial aid for Summer 2010. You will receive an award letter that must be returned to Student Financial Services before you will receive financial aid.

PLEASE NOTE: Financial aid disbursements will not be applied to student accounts until June 7, 2010, or the first day of your first summer class after June 7, 2010. Students who are receiving financial aid must have made arrangements with a financial aid counselor in Student Financial Services prior to May 10 or the day of registration to defer payment of charges.
