Presidential Lecture Series

Presidential Lecture Series: Linda Daugaard, South Dakota's First Lady
Tickets are still available!

Black Hills State University is pleased to announce the next Presidential Lecture Series: An Evening with Mrs. Linda Daugaard: Personal Thoughts on South Dakota's Children and Life as First Lady.

Since becoming South Dakota's First Lady in January 2011, Mrs. Daugaard has been committed to promoting reading and keeping South Dakota children safe. Mrs. Daugaard's areas of focus are promoting literacy, reducing infant mortality, reducing early elective deliveries, and promoting FosterOne, the state's foster care program. She also showcases the South Dakota Governor's Mansion.

Tickets are FREE, but there is a limited number available.

Email Tickets@BHSU.edu to get yours today!

In Search of Kittens!

The Counseling Center is in search of a few more furry friends for our Pet the Stress Away Wellness Fair this Thursday the 5th from 11-1.

We are in search of a box of kittens to be loved and cuddled by students passing by the health fair. These kittens should be docile enough not to run off when approached by strangers.

If you or someone you know may be able to help us in gathering the last few furry friends for our event, please contact us at Tracy.Hunt@BHSU.edu or Chelseymgroseclose@BHSU.edu

Affective factors in learning workshop

From University of Seville, Spain, Dr. Jane Arnold will be presenting two workshops at BHSU campus related to affective factors in learning process. Please feel free to join it.

-Workshop I, Wed, April 4th | JA 307 | 2 - 4pm

Dr. Arnold will share how positive group dynamics stimulate interaction and learning and will guide participants through diverse practical applications for fostering positive learning communities within their classrooms. We will see diverse practical applications for working with the group dynamics in our classrooms.

-Workshop II, Thurs, April 5th | JA 307 | 2 - 4pm

This workshop will examine how individual factors, such as motivation, self-esteem and autonomy can have a significant influence on learning and how attention to these factors can provide meaning and incentive for learners. Applications for the classroom from Howard Gardner's Theory of Multiple Intelligences will be explored. With the visual-spatial intelligence we will see how the use in class of art and other visual elements and of mental imagery can be beneficial in general and specifically for language learning.

Active Shooter Response Training- What Would You Do??

Reminder: This will be your last chance this semester to attend Active Shooter Response training! Active shooter incidents evolve quickly and are unpredictable. These types of incidents are on the increase and statistics show that the more individuals trained in how to respond during an active shooter incident, the safer the community can be. BHSU will be offering 2 (1-hr) sessions on options-based Active Shooter Response. Learn how to adopt a survival mindset, how to identify concerning or suspicious behavior and what options exist if you are ever confronted with an active shooter situation. Training can replace panic with effective action.

When: Wednesday April 4th 6pm & 7:30pm

Where: Club Buzz

Door Prizes: 3 student attendees for each session will win a 50% discount on a 2018-19 academic year parking permit!
