Events

Cultural Ambassadors Meeting

The Cultural Ambassadors will be meeting in Woodburn room #115 on Monday, August 28th at 6:00pm for the first meeting of the semester. The Cultural Ambassador program pairs domestic and international students together who then meet for an hour or two a week to help new international students get used to life at BHSU and in America. Everyone involved gets the chance to learn about other cultures and can make close friends in the process. Whether you are an international student or a domestic student, please stop by Woodburn room #115 this week and fill out an application for the program by Friday, August 25th. If you have any questions, please contact Bobby.Russell@YellowJackets.BHSU.edu.

Geek Speak: "Simulations of History: 8 Second Looks at 4 Iconic Photos"

From Dr. Tim Steckline

The Hindenberg exploding and burning. Oswald's face contorting as he is shot by Jack Ruby. A plane crashing into the side of a tower. Photos present us with a representation of reality, something so convincingly reminiscent of our vision of the everyday world seen in its shifting veil of light, that we readily accept photographs as faithful evidence of an objective past. But photography constructs realities, and converts the past as experienced into a frozen simulation of history, an iconic image. To test this idea, four significant and familiar photos from the past will be given a second look, contextualized, analyzed, interpreted . . . and then, upon a second second look, shown to be problems for interpretation. The photos for our consideration will be The Flag-Raising at Mt. Suribachi (1945), shot by Joe Rosenthal; The V-J Day Kiss (1945), by Alfred Eisenstaedt; The Napalmed Girl (1972), by Nick Uts; and The Tank Man (1989), by Jeff Widener. Come ready with eyes bigger than your stomach, as there will be a picnic of full helpings of scopophilia, with sides of captions, spiced with several invidious comparisons, and topped with a dash of snarky iconoclasm. After dinner mints are gratis, courtesy of photojournalists everywhere.

This lecture will be held Thursday August 31 at 4 pm in Jonas 110. All Geek Speaks are free and open to the public.
